Description

AA Skincare Red Rose Clear Glycerin Soap. 125g bars in a clear wrapper to display the beautiful colours of these fine quality vegetable glycerin soaps. Hand-made vegetable soap manufactured to the highest standard using a process which has changed little over the last century. Originally made in Minsk, Russia in 1893. This clear glycerin soap is made using a blend of palm oil, coconut oil and castor oil. It is highly moisturising and provides deep cleansing due to its high glycerin content. The soap contains no animal by-products.

Vegan Friendly.

This is the second soap I've tried and I have to say it's just as good as the first one, in fact I prefer the smell to this one it's more of a feminine smell, it lathers up nicely and doesn't dry out or irritate my skin, I can also use this soap to shave my underarms without leaving them sore and razor burned, I'm getting my daughter to try it out as I think she will love it as I do.

Lovely rose scent and bright pink colour! I use it as a hand soap in the bathroom. It's not drying and seems to last for a long time.

I have used this soap and also several of the other glycerin tablet soaps from Amphora. They are wonderfully perfumed, very subtle. Cleansing and skin softening too. I bought them from the pharmacy at Babbacombe but now buy online. An interesting fact is that when my grandchildren were very small and stayed with me, I used the Tea Tree one for washing their hair as we all know what they can pick up at school and it really was very very good.

For years I thought that I couldn't use soap at all, my skin would dry out so badly with conventional soaps. Then I tried this wonderful glycerin soap. Not only am I clean and soft after using it - it smells wonderful! I am so glad to be using a product that reduces my carbon footprint (no more plastic bottles of shower gel) and that improves my skin. A real win-win.
